Beijing 2011: Big Shifts

Celebrating the 80th Anniversary of the ICC Banking Commission

Dear ICC Banking Commission Delegates

I am delighted to welcome you to this fall's ICC Banking Commission meeting, commencing on Monday, October 24 and ending on Friday, October 28 at the Marriot City Wall, Beijing, China. We expect over 300 of the world's leading trade finance bankers, experts and policymakers to attend what has become the pre-eminent private sector event in the global trade finance calendar.

The 80th Anniversary of the Banking Commission will be at the heart of your discussions in Beijing. During its 80-year history, ICC Banking Commission leadership, members and experts have promoted the drafting of rules, which today have become standard business practice. The Commission has also become known for its international community, with members from more than 85 countries whose work has become more comprehensive over the years in terms of learning opportunities, increased policy-making agenda and enhanced partnerships. The 80th Anniversary celebration will honor these achievements, while also examine the new challenges ahead of us.

The plenary of the Banking Commission will start on Wednesday, October 26 with a strong appeal to our international constituency, featuring discussions on the Commission's 2012-2015 strategy and presentations of key projects in the areas of rules-drafting, including Banking Commission opinions, supply chain finance, forfaiting, international standard business practice, bank guarantees, the Basel III global regulatory environment, challenges of multibanking, etc.

Our program will be accompanied with the 80th Anniversary dinner on October 26, 2011.

With support of the ICC Banking Commission, I am pleased to inform you that ICC China will organize a specialized workshop on 24th and 25th October. A Trade Finance Summit will also take place on 28th October. In particular, the Summit will discuss how the global trade has undergone significant changes under the influence of the various economic, political and business forces in recent years. A series of panels will highlight the key ingredients of the big shifts taking place today, in particular shifting economic powers, shifting currencies and shifting financial markets and institutions.

Thank you for your support and the many ways you help to advance the mission of the ICC Banking Commission.

I look forward seeing you again.

Yours sincerely,

Thierry Senechal
ICC Senior Policy Manager
Banking Commission

17.15 Concluding Remarks

Zhang Wei, Vice Chair, CCOIC/ICC China

Beijing 2011: Big Shifts

The International Chamber of Commerce (ICC)

ICC is the world business organisation, a representative body that speaks with authority on behalf of enterprises from all sectors in every part of the world. The fundamental mission of ICC is to promote trade and investment across frontiers and help business corporations meet the challenges and opportunities of globalization. Its conviction that trade is a powerful force for peace and prosperity dates from the organization's origins early in the last century. The small group of far-sighted business leaders who founded ICC in 1919 called themselves "the merchants of peace". Today ICC groups hundreds of thousands of member companies and associations from over 120 countries. National committees work with their members to address the concerns of business in their countries and convey to their governments the business views formulated by ICC.

ICC has three main activities: rules-setting, dispute resolution and policy. Because its member companies and associations are themselves engaged in international business, ICC has unrivalled authority in making rules that govern the conduct of business across borders. Although these rules are voluntary, they are observed in countless thousands of transactions every day and have become part of the fabric of international trade. ICC also provides essential services, foremost among them the ICC International Court of Arbitration, the world's leading arbitral institution. Another service is the World Chambers Federation, ICC's worldwide network of chambers of commerce, fostering interaction and exchange of chamber best practice. ICC enjoys a close working relationship with the United Nations and other intergovernmental organizations, including the World Trade Organization and the G8/G20.

ICC Banking Commission

The ICC Banking Commission is a leading global rule-making body for the banking industry, producing universally accepted rules and guidelines for international banking practice, notably letters of credit, demand guarantees and bank-to-bank reimbursement. ICC rules on documentary credits, UCP 600, are the most successful privately drafted rules for trade ever developed and are estimated to be the basis of trade transactions involving more than one trillion dollars a year. The Banking Commission is equally a worldwide forum of trade finance experts whose common aim is to facilitate international trade finance across the world. With over 500 members in 85 countries, many of them emerging, the Banking Commission is one of the largest ICC Commissions. ICC voluntary market-based approaches developed by the Banking Commission have often been praised for leveling the playing field in trade finance practices.
