

David Morrish

Relationship Director – International Trade Finance Qualifications, Institute of Financial Services

David has previously worked with the Lloyds Banking Group where he spent most of his career in Trade Finance, including leading the bank's City of London trade operations centre. He was, for a time, Chief Examiner for the ifs School of Finance International Trade Finance degree module and was for several years a member of the examination board for the Certificate for Documentary Credit Specialists (CDCS®) qualification.

In addition to Trade Finance David has expertise in Operational Risk working for both Lloyds Banking Group and Barclays Bank in this specialist area. David also served at the Bank Of England as part of a dedicated team providing emergency funding to financial institutions during the height of the financial crisis in 2008/9.