CGD International Presence: The Angolan Case

BACKGROUND:

- Angola has emerged from more than four decades of war to become Africa's second largest oil exporter and its third largest economy.
- After the collapse in oil prices in 2008-09, Angola experienced a sharp contraction on its oil revenue and faced growing macroeconomic instability.
- Three years after the abrupt decline in world oil prices, Angola has attained: an improved fiscal position, a more comfortable level of international reserves, a stable exchange rate, and lower inflation.

RECENT ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENTS:

- Overall macroeconomic stability improved in 2011. Oil production problems constrained oil sector growth, but non-oil growth compensated for the decline, resulting in an overall real growth rate of 3.9 percent
- Headline inflation declined to 11.4 percent by year-end, helped by a stable exchange.

A large, abstract graphic element occupies the left two-thirds of the slide. It consists of several overlapping, rounded, organic shapes in varying shades of blue, ranging from dark navy to light sky blue. The shapes are layered and curve inwards towards the center of the slide.
