

Sabrina M. Borlini

Manager Global Trade and Supply Chain Solutions International Finance Corporation, Washington, DC

Sabrina M. Borlini is the Global Manager for Business Development in IFC's Global Trade and Supply Chain Solutions Department. In this capacity, she leads a global team responsible for business origination for programs such as the Global Trade Finance Program (GTFP), the Critical Commodities Finance Program (CCFP), the Global Warehouse Finance Program (GWFP), the Global Trade Supplier Finance (GTSF), the Global Trade Liquidity Program (GTLP) as well as Structured Trade solutions.

Prior to her current position, Ms. Borlini has covered a number of positions in trade and supply chain, including Senior Business Development Manager for Europe (Brussels, Belgium), Senior Trade Officer for Sub-Saharan Africa (Johannesburg, South Africa) and Trade Specialist for the CIS and Southern Europe (Sarajevo, Bosnia).

Ms Borlini also worked as a Syndications Specialist in the Syndications and International Securities Group, with specific responsible for IFC's B-loan syndications in Latin America. She joined IFC in 1997 as part of the Treasury Department where she contributed to the first ever securitization of emerging market debt.

Ms. Borlini holds a Law Degree from University of Pavia (ITA) and a Master in International Business from the George Washington University (USA). She is currently based in Washington DC.